

MEET DAVID HARRIS

David Harris has been the director of the Raleigh Ringers since January 1990 when he was instrumental in the formation of the group. He was previously director of the handbell program at Hudson Memorial Presbyterian Church in Raleigh.

He has studied conducting privately with Dr. William Payn of Bucknell University. He has served AGEHR Area III as the North Carolina State Chair and as Treasurer. He led the national committee that planned the first handbell event designed for Community/Professional Handbell Choirs in 2000.

David is in increasing demand as a clinician and guest conductor and served as the Master Class clinician at the Area II festival in 2005.

David has a degree in computer science from Penn State University and is a manager in software development. He and his wife, Kristina, live in Raleigh, N.C. with their three children.
